Congratulations to the students who are dedicated to their homework tasks and consistently return all work completed. It's also great to see many students engaging in regular home reading. This is the last week of homework, and all students who have displayed excellence in returning their homework will be rewarded with a hot chip lunch next Wednesday.

Next Tuesday, we will be preparing food using an assembly line. The students are in the process of deciding which food would be suitable for this style of preparation while considering limitations such as cost, availability, food intolerances, space and safety. I have requested that each student provides $2 towards the purchase of the food items and the money can be given directly to me.

I apologise to Anka for omitting her name from these notes last week, she did a fine job of presenting her multicultural speech to the school. Congratulations to Jonny for being selected to represent our school at the finals in Thurgoona next week.
